

YES, WAYZATA, THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS

There wasn't much snow for the holidays this year, but when Christmas cheer is in the air, some of it is apt to leak into Wayzata's hallowed halls. Art students contributed some atmosphere with decorated bulletin boards and windows, and the Student Council livened things up with two decorated Christmas trees. Some students talked their teachers into Christmas parties and bits of carols in three languages could be heard by some wayfaring stranger delivering library notices. The pub went all out, though, when they crawled through the windows to sculpt Frosty, the courtyard snowman!

Holiday activities included a ski trip to Sugar Hills, the traditional choral concert, and the Christmas dance. Incidentally . . . Jim did go!!

Front hall bulletin boards show efforts of Mr. Dostal's art classes.

Pat Bauer, Renee Giebenhain, Jackie Kieth, Richard McDermott, and David Christianson present "How Come Christmas?" at the annual Christmas assembly.

Imagination and skill bring Christmas cheer to the halls of Wayzata High.

"HAVE A HEART" PLEAS NHS

The noble, humanitarian members of the National Honor Society created the most successful Heart Week in WHS history. The Society contributed a total of $406. to the United Fund.

During the lively week there was an activity for everyone. The romantic-minded sent poetry-laden heart-o-grams to their sweethearts in affectionate and passionate sizes. The gourmets excelled at the annual Pancake Breakfast. Barry Aitchison not only won the medal for out-eating everyone, but had time to build a sausage house and still make his first class! The bashful were content to contribute with their classes when the containers were passed every day. The plaque for the most generous class went to the Juniors who collected $100.06 . . . but the Seniors with $100.04 deserve credit for being honest (they counted the money).

The week's climax came with the Heart Dance or (Gangrene-a-go-go) with the music of the Knotts. Suzy Thornton and Paul Pasawat were crowned Queen and King of Hearts.

Queen Sue Thornton and King Paul Pasawat enjoy the Heart Dance.

NHS President Tory Stempf stuffs the Senior bottle with bills as Joyce Roiko and Barbara Brownawell prepare to make the rounds.

