

WHAT'S IN STORE FOR '84

Going through the years, in our Prophecy,
We will see what they will be.

Alicia Hughes is taking over Gertie Shmirt's spot in the Nu-Soft Commercial, while Dick Berg is in jail for being caught cheating in the Rose Bowl.

Kevin Regan has invented a streamlined spit shooter, and Cathy Eareckson is an Avon door-to-door saleswoman.

Scott McKenzie died after holding his breath for 3 hours, while Kathy Fleischhacker is a meat chopper down at Jensen's Super Valu.

Bruce Kerber has taken over Alfred E. Newman's spot in Mad, and Debra Duepner won the prize for the connoisseur of the year.

Jeff Rice has become the "before" in the Charles Atlas ad, and Bill Scheller is a champion chess player.

Jim Mitchell has taken over Johnny Weismuller's place as Tarzan, and Randy Lofgren has Cheta's spot.

Shirley Hunz is the person that gets the tomatoes in the Hunt's Catsup bottles, and Mike Neiss is a gold spray painter.

Lynn Virgilio is a lady wrestler, while Pam Gilsenan took over Buster Brown's spot.

Jerry Hawkinson is a lingerie salesman in Macy's basement, and Gary Butler is the Post Raisin counter of 1984.

Mike Thielges has been a toothpick at Hart's Cafe for 10 years, while Tomma Newell is the worlds greatest ballet dancer.

Judy Jubert has become a nuclear physicist at Cape Kennedy, while Cherie Reid is the cook at Glen Lake Reformatory.

Bill O'Melia has "Wilt the Stilt's" spot in the San Francisco Warriors, while Cece Hughes and Carol Kowal are Olympic javalin throwers.

Sanford Anderson is still in 8th grade at dear old St. Barts.

Sam Rettinger has become a top Chevrolet car salesman, while last Saturday, Joe Wilson beat Rich Plaisted in a karate match.

Lynne Ryan and Sue Meehan are white hunters in Africa and have just decoded the love song the dodo bird sings.

Tom Lebens has just become the first man on the moon, while Steve Juettner has taken over Mr. Liemandt's place as 8th grade math teacher.
